input() function

The input() function allows user input, and it will only understand user's input as string variable.

```python
print("enter any number") number = input()
```

Techtorial